

Welcome to EarthWalk Vermont

an intergenerational nature-mentoring school located approximately sixty miles from here, in the Winooski River Bioregion, in Plainfield, Vermont

Please join us in this exhibit for A Day at EarthWalk Village.

Village School and Teen Land Project are concurrent programs that meet weekly during the school year for a full day of Learning With the Land.

EarthWalk's educational philosophy of Nature-Mentoring is practiced in over 100 schools in this country and many more around the world. It is documented in the book, Coyote's Guide to Connecting with Nature, by Jon Young.

As we go through this exhibit and experience A Day at EarthWalk Village, we follow the Natural Cycle of Learning, an educational framework oriented to the natural rhythms of the day as the sun moves through the compass directions. In each of these directions we practice the Core Routines of Nature Connection (shown in bold in the text that follows). We practice these foundational learning habits every day at Earth Walk.

Enjoy your Day at EarthWalk Village!

The Natural Cycle of Learning

